

Special Issue on “Anesthesia & Critical Care”

Aims and Scope

SOJ Anesthesiology & Pain Management is a peer reviewed open access journal, exclusively designed for the international Scientific community that addresses ongoing research on Anesthesia & Pain management, which aims to provide a unique platform for publishing high quality research work. The journal aims to frame up an outstanding special issue on Anesthesia & Critical Care.

Anesthesia is an ephemeral state consisting of oblivion, loss of memory, short of pain, and muscle relaxation. There are various types of anesthesia used throughout the patients lives, most people will undergo anesthesia either during the birth of their baby or for an operative procedure, which could range from short, simple surgery on a day-stay basis to a major surgery requiring complex, quick decisions to keep them safe. The specialized care of patients under a anesthetic procedure whose conditions are life-threatening and who require comprehensive care and constant monitoring, is an intensive care units which is also known as intensive care.

The objective of the special issue is to integrate the growing international community of researchers working on the topics like Combined-Spinal-Epidural Anesthesia, Sedation in Children, Emergency Anesthesia, Anesthesia Drugs and Adjutants and Toxicology and Critical Care.
