

Special Issue on
“Arthritis and its Treatment”

Aims and Scope

Journal of Exercise, Sports & Orthopedics is a peer reviewed open access journal, exclusively designed for the international Scientific community that addresses ongoing research on Exercise, Sports & Orthopedics, which aims to provide a unique platform for publishing high quality research work. The journal aims to frame up an outstanding special issue on Arthritis and its Treatment.

Arthritis involves inflammation of one or more joints. There are different forms of arthritis but, Osteoarthritis and Rheumatoid arthritis are common. Arthritis is more prevalent in women than men. Arthritis generally starts between the ages of 30 and 60. As per the recent statistics, over one million Americans are suffering from arthritis.

JESO invites manuscripts for its special Issue on "Arthritis and its treatment" as a step to bring the current research in it, in an easily accessible way to the world with your participation.
